Australian laptop bag and case maker STM releases a follow-up to its Velocity portfolio-- the Annex collection, designed for the "more urban, fashion-oriented customer" wanting to keep their various devices organised.

Annex features four different bags, namely drifter, trust, sequel and link. All are available in olive, charcoal and red colours.

Described by STM as "like a favourite pair of cargo pants," drifter is a retro-style backpack. It features a 15-inch padded laptop cell, a bottom zip pocket hiding a detachable rain cover and plenty of compartment capacity for various items.

Meanwhile trust is a messenger-style bag available in either small (fits 13-inch devices) and medium (15-inch) sizes. It contains a protective front cap with lined pockets and a dedicated laptop compartment lined in soft nylex and high-density foam. The sequel is a similar messenger bag, being a "just-the-essentials" number in two sizes (small and medium) with a main flap and dedicated laptop compartment.

The final bag on offer is the link, a smaller option for 10-inch tablets featuring a magnetic closure drop pocket and quick-cam adjust shoulder strap for cross body and shoulder carry.

All the above mentioned bags should ship globally by end April 2014.
