Shuttle's KPC

Written by Administrator
13 February 2008

At $99, they will be as easy to sell as chicken in USA.

Shuttle showed this at CES and it'll probably be at CeBIT: an entry level small footprint PC with enviable design flair.

At only $99 in US, the new entry-level Shuttle may sell as fast as fried chicken.

That, and the familiarity of the "KFC" label, encourages American pundits to call Shuttle's new Linux cube, "Kentucky P.C."

The colourful Shuttle KPC will bundle an Intel processor, an Intel 945GC chipset, 512MB of memory, and 60GB (or 80GB) HDD.

Shuttle's KPC

Written by Administrator
13 February 2008

Blah KPC with Shuttle KPC the dobpenly new issue will the evidentfolder adire OK they all