

Goose Protects the Flock

Written by Bob Snyder
12 April 2009

Mobility Software is a Goose

Maybe you saw this Goose wandering around Planet Reseller at CeBIT? The wandering Goose was from the Hikanoos stand. They sell software and a drive under this bird brand.

The point of the wandering goose at CeBIT was to emphasize Goose lets you work safely anywhere, anytime on any computer. Goose enables mobility with security “as airtight as a goose”.

The Goose software turns any USB key into a secure and mobile portable computer device. You get a complete suite of software with email, browsing, writing, multimedia, chat and call and security.

Goose Protects the Flock

Written by Bob Snyder
12 April 2009

By security, we mean no-trace technology, no-script protection, anti-virus protection, digital shredder, password memory and more.

The advantage is as clear and pointed as the beak on a goose's face: instead of lugging a laptop or netbook around, you can carry your USB key—plug it into any chosen computer and the high level of security means when you leave, you leave nothing behind on that chosen computer.

Maybe you prefer a portable computer device, so Goose has loaded their software on a drive. The drive is small enough to be carried on a keychain, yet carries the full Goose software suite. It secures your email com munication, phone calls, web visits, and financial transactions.

Retailers and distributors can see Goose highlighted at the upcoming RETAILVISION EUROPE in Berlin.

Hikanoos calls Goose “your digital guardian”. That’s just another way to say: This Goose protects the flock.

Go Goose

Goose Protects the Flock

Written by Bob Snyder
12 April 2009
